There is no more enterprising ousiness man in the city than Ben Levy, the popular West Pike street cigar merchant. He came here eight years ago and entered at once into active business, bringing with til he was at the front, where he has remained every since. some respects he is ahead of the procession. Mr. Levy used novel methods of advertising in addition to newspai-room cottage, finished in hard- per advertisements, among which are signs of which he is the insign in his display window, which attracted much attention and there were many who wondered where the ticking was and how it was Balance just like rent, $16.00 per done. Later he surprised the pubfic with another sign known as the rocker, for movement. public wondered again. He did not stop at that as a little later on he had a new sign in the window, nearing perpetual motion. The public marvelled again. And now he has the public guessing again with a new electric sign that reflects on the pavement in front of his store At present this new sign at night 7-room house out on car line, fin- throws the following words on the pavement, and every one who passes
